

Setting Description Writing Prompt

Setting Description Writing Prompt

Describe the colours and shapes of objects in the setting, but don't be exact – this adds suspense.	Describe the setting from the distance, how does it look? What stands out? What is noticeable?	Describe one feature of the setting in great detail. Can the character touch it? How does it feel?	What different sounds can you hear?	Pick one sound that stands out and describe it in detail -The pitch, frequency, direction, volume – Simile?
Can something in the setting move? Use personification to add detail.	Compare the setting that may be familiar to the reader or character – 'A busy city centre.'	What is in the centre of the setting? A focal point that grabs your attention.	What does the setting remind you or the character of? Or sound alike?	What is the weather doing in the setting? How might it change?
Who might use the setting - evidence? Who has been here before?	Describe a small-scale change, over the space of a minute or hour. E.g. shadow of the trees?	How does the small-scale change affect the mood and atmosphere?	How does the setting make the character feel? What emotions are they feeling?	Use precise and powerful adjectives to describe throughout.
				Finally , explain exactly where you are, so the reader is clear.

Setting Description Writing Prompt

Describe the colours and shapes of objects in the setting, but don't be exact – this adds suspense.	Describe the setting from the distance, how does it look? What stands out? What is noticeable?	Describe one feature of the setting in great detail. Can the character touch it? How does it feel?	What different sounds can you hear?	Pick one sound that stands out and describe it in detail -The pitch, frequency, direction, volume – Simile?
Can something in the setting move? Use personification to add detail.	Compare the setting that may be familiar to the reader or character – 'A busy city centre.'	What is in the centre of the setting? A focal point that grabs your attention.	What does the setting remind you or the character of? Or sound alike?	What is the weather doing in the setting? How might it change?
Who might use the setting - evidence? Who has been here before?	Describe a small-scale change, over the space of a minute or hour. E.g. shadow of the trees?	How does the small-scale change affect the mood and atmosphere?	How does the setting make the character feel? What emotions are they feeling?	Use precise and powerful adjectives to describe throughout.
				Finally , explain exactly where you are, so the reader is clear.

Setting Description Writing Prompt

Describe the colours and shapes of objects in the setting, but don't be exact – this adds suspense.

Describe the setting from the distance, how does it look? What stands out? What is noticeable?

Describe one feature of the setting in great detail. Can the character touch it? How does it feel?

What different sounds can you hear?

Pick one sound that stands out and describe it in detail -The pitch, frequency, direction, volume – Simile?

Can something in the setting move? Use personification to add detail.

Compare the setting that may be familiar to the reader or character – 'A busy city centre.'

What is in the centre of the setting? A focal point that grabs your attention.

What does the setting remind you or the character of? Or sound alike?

What is the weather doing in the setting? How might it change?

Use personification and/or simile to describe the weather. Strong verb choices important.

Who might use the setting - evidence? Who has been here before?

Describe a small-scale change, over the space of a minute or hour. E.g. shadow of the trees?

How does the small-scale change affect the mood and atmosphere?

How does the setting make the character feel? What emotions are they feeling?

Use precise and powerful adjectives to describe throughout.

Finally, explain exactly where you are, so the reader is clear.

Setting Description Writing Prompt

Describe the colours and shapes of objects in the setting, but don't be exact – this adds suspense.

Describe the setting from the distance, how does it look? What stands out? What is noticeable?

Describe one feature of the setting in great detail. Can the character touch it? How does it feel?

What different sounds can you hear?

Pick one sound that stands out and describe it in detail - The pitch, frequency, direction, volume – Simile?

Can something in the setting move? Use personification to add detail.

Compare the setting that may be familiar to the reader or character – 'A busy city centre.'

What is in the centre of the setting? A focal point that grabs your attention.

What does the setting remind you or the character of? Or sound alike?

What is the weather doing in the setting? How might it change?

Use personification and/or simile to describe the weather. Strong verb choices important.

Who might use the setting - evidence? Who has been here before?

Describe a small-scale change, over the space of a minute or hour. E.g. shadow of the trees?

How does the small-scale change affect the mood and atmosphere?

How does the setting make the character feel? What emotions are they feeling?

Use precise and powerful adjectives to describe throughout.

Finally, explain exactly where you are, so the reader is clear.