I do not ever recall seeing water so blue.

I needed this.

Is this paradise? I think so.

That boat may prove useful; I will need to fish later so that I can eat.

Hearts and minds- How might the boy be feeling and what might he be thinking?

What is happening	How he is feeling	What he is thinking
He sits in the corridor in the aftermath and raises his head to look around.
He gets up and heads for the door, noticing the teacher as he walks past he classroom.
He passes the policeman then speeds off on his bike.
He arrives home and quickly packs a bag, during which he notices police are outside the house.
He tries to leave but the door is locked, so he summons the keys using his mind power.
He treks through the desolate forest, peering behind himself occasionally.
As darkness falls he begins to run, followed by torch lights.
He is caught and thrown to the ground by law enforcement carrying large guns.
He huddles into a ball the there is an explosion of light around him as officers are knocked off their feet.
